

PROMPTING

1.Zero shot prompting :

- a. There are two team leads Ram and Shyam, working on a project. They disagree on some of the priorities of the project. Ram is prioritizing the Designing part and Shyam is prioritizing the development part. You have to draft a mediation plan between them that is fair and action-oriented.
- b. Write a warm, professional welcome email for Sarah, a new Social Media Manager joining our marketing team. She is joining during our 'Summer Growth' campaign to lead our TikTok strategy

2.Few Shot prompting :

A. Team leads conflict :

Instruction: Draft a fair, action-oriented mediation plan for two leads with conflicting priorities.

Leads: Ram and Shyam

Conflict: Ram prioritizes Design; Shyam prioritizes Development.

Mediation Plan example 1:

1. Objective Statement
2. Identification of Shared Goals
3. The Middle Ground

4. Actionable Roadmap
5. Conflict Resolution
6. Follow-up Schedule

Mediation Plan example 2:

1. Conflict Overview
2. Stakeholder Perspectives
3. Primary Points of Alignment
4. Negotiated Compromise
5. Defined Deliverables
6. Escalation Path
7. Success Criteria Review

3. Chain of Thoughts

Scenario: Draft an internal memo addressing a data breach incident, keeping staff informed without causing panic.

Prompt:

Draft an internal memo for all staff regarding a recent data security incident in order to keep the staff informed. The data breach include the Employees personal data and some security files.

Use a calm and professional tone so that it won't cause any panic and follow the following steps:

Step 1: What happened – background of the incident

Step 2: What are we doing – the data breach approach

Step 3: Immediate Action required from staff- instruction for employees regarding MFA

Step 4: Support and Resources – providing the support

Step 5: Reporting – reporting the missing things

Scenario: Develop a 30-day go-to-market strategy for a B2B SaaS tool targeting mid-size companies.

Prompt:

Task: Develop a comprehensive 30-day go-to-market strategy for a new B2B SaaS tool.

Product scenario: Assume the tool is an AI- driven resource management platform that integrates with Jira to prevent employee burnout and optimize project allocation.

Chain of Thought : Before providing a 30-day calendar, please reason through the following steps:

1. Refinement : Define specific buyer within the company
2. Value Proposition: Identify the pain points this tool solves that other systems miss.
3. Channel Selection: Rank top channels based on 30 day metric
4. 30-day sprint: Break the strategy into 4 weekly phases:
 - Week 1: Foundation
 - Week 2: Demand generation
 - Week 3: Sales and Pipeline Management
 - Week 4: Optimization and Feedback Loops.

Constraints: Focus on low-cost, high-impact activities. Avoid activities that take more than 30 days to yield results.

5.Role Based:

Scenario : Write a warm, professional welcome email for a new hire joining the marketing team.

Prompt:

Role: You are a Senior Communications Specialist with 15 years of experience in Hiring new employees. You specialize in creating "Day Zero" experiences that reduce new-hire anxiety and build immediate cultural alignment.

Task: Write a high-touch, professional, and warm welcome email for a new Senior Content Strategist (Shyam) joining the Global Growth Marketing Team.

Context & Tone:

- Tone: Enthusiastic, organized, and sophisticated. Avoid "corporate speak"; use human, inclusive language.
- Company Culture: A fast-paced tech scale-up that values data-driven creativity and radical transparency.
- Sender: Ram, VP of Marketing.

Email Structure Requirements:

1. Subject Line: Must be catchy and high-energy.
2. The Hook: A warm opening acknowledging how competitive the hiring process was and why we chose them.
3. Logistics: A clear "What to expect on Monday" section (mention a 10:00 AM coffee sync and a team lunch).
4. Cultural Touchpoint: Mention the team's tradition to show personality.
5. Call to Action: A low-pressure request for them to share a "fun fact" for the internal Slack announcement.

Constraints:

- Keep the email under 300 words.
- Use bullet points for the first-day schedule to ensure readability.
- Ensure the transition from "warmth" to "logistics" feels seamless.
